

TAILORED JOB APPLICATIONS

9 Worldwide-Remote Roles — Cover Letters + Tappable Apply Links

Prepared for Chinwendu Marvellous Ajaegbu-Caleb (Caleb Marvel)

calebmarvel9@gmail.com

How to use this document: every role below has a blue underlined link — tap or click it to go straight to the application page. Under each link is the tailored cover letter for that role: copy it into the application's cover-letter field, attach your resume, and submit. None of these were submitted for you — each still needs your click.

Contents

1. cryptohero.ca — Affiliate & Partnerships Manager
2. Verilay — Growth Lead
3. Crypto Fund Trader — Regional Growth Manager
4. Collectibles.com — Discord Community Manager
5. CoinFunnel — Crypto PR / Business Development Executive
6. vibetrade.fun — Part-Time Social Media & Content Manager
7. Fiber — Community Ambassador
8. Decentralized Masters — Virtual Assistant, Fulfilment
9. garden3d — Head of Marketing & Communications

1. cryptohero.ca — Affiliate & Partnerships Manager

Remote, worldwide • $2k/mo base + revenue share (top performers $10k-50k+/mo)

APPLY HERE: cryptojobslist.com/jobs/affiliate-partnerships-manager-remote-at-cryptohero-ca

Pain point from JD: needs someone to build and scale an affiliate/referral program from the ground up.

Dear Hiring Manager,

Building an affiliate program that actually compounds -- not just a spreadsheet of sign-up links -- comes down to treating affiliates like a managed channel, not a set-and-forget list. Here's what I'd bring to that:

1. A structured recruitment-to-onboarding pipeline for affiliates and influencers, so growth doesn't stall waiting on ad-hoc outreach.
2. Commission structures negotiated around actual affiliate LTV, not flat rates that either overpay low performers or underpay your best ones.
3. An ongoing relationship cadence that keeps top affiliates active and promoting, instead of recruiting once and going quiet.

Proof this works: I took a client's Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then turned that audience into $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days through a mix of direct sales, ad-revenue share, and paid partnerships -- the same discipline of turning relationships into tracked, recurring revenue that this role needs.

Happy to walk through how I'd structure the first 90 days of the affiliate program.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

2. Verilay — Growth Lead

Remote, worldwide • $50k-70k/yr

APPLY HERE: cryptojobslist.com/jobs/verilay-is-hiring-a-growth-lead-remote-at-verilay

Honest note: biggest technical stretch on this list (ZK Rollup / DID identity) -- letter leans on transferable GTM-from-zero skill, not claimed technical fluency.

Dear Hiring Manager,

Verilay is at the stage where the hardest problem isn't the technology, it's translating "privacy-focused ZK Rollup + DID layer" into an offer a non-technical buyer immediately understands. Here's what I'd bring to that:

1. Clear, simple positioning and ICP definition built from real conversations with early prospects, not assumptions -- so messaging matches how buyers actually describe their problem.
2. A structured experiment log across enterprise sales, partnerships, and product-led channels, so you learn what's working in weeks, not quarters.
3. Documented playbooks from day one, so whatever channel proves out is repeatable the moment you're ready to hire beyond a single growth hire.

I've built go-to-market systems from zero before across genuinely different verticals -- from a B2B agricultural marketplace (Zonia Hub) to consumer fintech education (James Trading Strategies, 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, monetized to $5,000+ in 30 days) -- the constant across both was building the acquisition system before scaling spend, which is exactly Verilay's stage right now.

I'd welcome a conversation about Verilay's current GTM experiments and where I could plug in first.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

3. Crypto Fund Trader — Regional Growth Manager

Remote, worldwide (apply from anywhere) • $14k-28k/yr

APPLY HERE:

cryptojobslist.com/jobs/regional-growth-managers-multiple-remote-at-crypto-fund-trader

IMPORTANT: the JD asks you to specify the market you know best -- specify Nigeria / West Africa.

Dear Hiring Manager,

I'd apply specifically for the Nigeria / West Africa market. Retail crypto trading interest here is real and growing, but most global prop firms treat the region as an afterthought -- that gap is the opportunity. Here's what I'd bring to owning it:

1. A region-specific acquisition playbook built on actual knowledge of how Nigerian retail traders discover and evaluate trading platforms -- not a copy-pasted global funnel.
2. Partnership and affiliate channel development with the trading communities and creators already active in this market.
3. A CAC-tracked funnel from first touch to funded trader account, so growth here is measurable, not just "activity."

Direct proof this works in exactly this niche: I took James Trading Strategies' Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then monetized that audience to $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days -- a trading-education audience, the closest possible match to what Crypto Fund Trader needs in this market.

Happy to walk through how I'd approach the first 90 days growing the Nigeria/West Africa market.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

4. Collectibles.com — Discord Community Manager

Remote, worldwide • $45k-80k/yr

APPLY HERE: cryptojobslist.com/jobs/discord-community-manager-web3-at-collectibles-com

Honest note: JD prefers Discord-bot experience and a Solana network -- neither verified here; letter leans on transferable community-growth discipline.

Dear Hiring Manager,

A Discord community only stays active if there's a real cadence behind it, not just a channel that goes quiet between drops. Here's what I'd bring to keeping Collectibles.com's community engaged:

1. A weekly content and events rhythm -- polls, announcements, conversations -- planned in advance instead of reactive, so the server has a pulse even on slow weeks.
2. Engagement tracking that shows which content types and events actually move members from lurkers to active participants, not just raw member-count growth.
3. A startup-ready approach to ownership -- I'd expect to wear multiple hats early on and build the systems so the community function scales as the team does.

I've built exactly this kind of audience-to-engagement discipline before: I took a client's Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then turned that engaged audience into $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days -- the same principle of treating community growth as a measurable system, not a vibe.

Would welcome a conversation about where the Collectibles.com community is headed next.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

5. CoinFunnel — Crypto PR / Business Development Executive

Remote, worldwide • commission-based

APPLY HERE: careers.coinfunnel.io

This is almost literally the daily outreach discipline you're already running.

Dear Hiring Manager,

CoinFunnel's model rewards whoever actually runs the outreach pipeline every day, not whoever has the best title -- that's a system I already operate, not a skill I'd be learning on the job. Here's what I'd bring to it:

1. A daily, personalized outreach cadence across the channels crypto/Web3 clients actually respond on -- no templated spam, every message researched first.
2. A tracked pipeline from first outreach through proposal to close, reported weekly with real numbers -- leads, replies, proposals sent, revenue closed -- not vague activity metrics.
3. A focus on repeat accounts, not one-off sales -- the relationship after the first close is where the real commission compounds.

Proof this works: I took a client's Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then converted that audience into $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days through direct sales, ad-revenue share, and paid partnerships -- the same close-and-compound discipline this role runs on.

Happy to share exactly how I'd structure my first month of pipeline-building.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

6. vibetrade.fun — Part-Time Social Media & Content Manager

Remote, worldwide • 15-25 hrs/wk

APPLY HERE:

cryptojobslist.com/jobs/part-time-social-media-content-manager-remote-at-vibetrade.fun

TIME-SENSITIVE: short application window when indexed -- verify it's still live before applying.

Dear Hiring Manager,

vibetrade.fun's whole premise -- making trading content genuinely watchable and shoppable -- lives or dies on the content engine behind it. Here's what I'd bring to that:

1. A platform-native short-form content system built around what's actually driving discovery on the app right now, not generic crypto-Twitter recycled content.
2. A weekly testing cadence on hooks, formats, and posting times so the content-to-trade pipeline keeps improving instead of plateauing.
3. A clear read on which content actually drives buyable-content discovery and trader activation, not just views.

Direct proof this transfers: I took a trading-strategies client's Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then monetized that audience to $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days -- the same trading-plus-social-content combination vibetrade.fun runs on.

Would welcome a conversation about the current content roadmap.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

7. Fiber — Community Ambassador

Remote, worldwide • contractor, revenue-share + monthly compensation

APPLY HERE: cryptojobslist.com/community (search "Fiber Community Ambassador")

HONEST FLAG: JD wants people already active in crypto/Web3 communities -- weaker fit than the others; the letter says so directly.

Dear Hiring Manager,

Here's what I'd bring to growing Fiber's presence and adoption:

1. Structured growth of awareness and community engagement using the same organic-plus-paid approach I've used to take social accounts from a standing start to a real, monetized audience -- not just posting activity.
2. A measurable path from awareness to adoption, treating community growth as a tracked funnel rather than a vanity-metric exercise.
3. Honest, direct communication -- I'd rather build credibility with your community over time than oversell involvement I don't have yet.

Proof this approach works: I took a client's Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then monetized that audience to $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days.

I'd want to be upfront that my prior community involvement is in growth marketing and social audiences generally, not yet inside a specific Web3 community -- I'd bring the acquisition discipline and grow into the ecosystem fast.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

8. Decentralized Masters — Virtual Assistant, Fulfilment

Remote, worldwide (EST hours overlap required)

APPLY HERE: cryptojobslist.com/jobs/virtual-assistant-fulfilment-analysts-decentralized-masters

Pain point from JD: needs someone detail-oriented handling membership operations.

Dear Hiring Manager,

Membership operations run smoothly when someone treats every account action as something that has to be right the first time, not fixed later. Here's what I'd bring to the Fulfilment team:

1. Accurate, timely processing of membership actions (extensions, pauses, access changes) with a system for double-checking before anything is marked done.
2. Consistent mailbox monitoring and response, so member questions don't sit unanswered past a reasonable SLA.
3. Clear, professional written communication that reflects well on the brand in every member interaction, not just the easy ones.

I bring strong organizational systems from running my own client operations -- tracking outreach, deliverables, and follow-through across multiple accounts at once, which is the same discipline this role needs applied to membership fulfilment.

I'm available to work EST-aligned hours and would welcome the opportunity to discuss the role further.

Best,
Caleb Marvel

9. garden3d — Head of Marketing & Communications

Remote, worldwide • $150k-230k

APPLY HERE: weworkremotely.com/remote-jobs/garden3d-head-of-marketing-communications

REAL STRETCH: senior leadership role, highest pay on this list by far. Apply anyway -- downside is just time.

Dear Hiring Manager,

garden3d isn't one brand voice, it's five -- Sanctuary Computer, XXIX, Index Space, USB Club, and the garden3d umbrella itself -- and the job is making all of them worth paying attention to at once. Here's what I'd bring to owning that:

1. A distinct content and distribution system for each brand under the house, so USB Club doesn't sound like XXIX doesn't sound like the garden3d Substack -- five real voices, not one voice repeated five times.
2. A production cadence across Substack, podcast, Instagram, and X that doesn't wait on a designer or a sign-off chain -- content made and shipped on a rhythm.
3. A clear read on which channel is actually building audience for which brand, so the paid accounts behind them are spending against what's working, not what feels active.

Direct proof I can build and monetize an audience from a standing start: I took a client's Instagram and Facebook from 0 to 10,000+ followers in 7 days, then converted that audience into $5,000+ in revenue within 30 days -- the same build-a-voice-then-monetize-it arc this role runs, applied at house-of-brands scale.

I'd welcome the chance to walk through how I'd approach the first 90 days across garden3d's channels.

Best,
Caleb Marvel